How the state subsidy works

The Altersvorsorgedepot (AVD) is a new state-subsidised pension account, decided by the Bundestag (27.03.2026) and Bundesrat (08.05.2026). You pay in, the state adds a bonus.

From €361 to €1,800 per year

+25%

Per child

+€300

per year, reached with €25 a month

Starting before 25?

GOOD TO KNOW

Payout, switching, tax

- Payout: from age 65 at the earliest – as a lifelong pension or a payout plan until at least 85; up to 30% can be taken as a lump sum.
- Tax: contributions can be deducted as special expenses (Sonderausgaben); gains are tax-free while saving, the payout is taxed later.
- Switching provider: in the first 5 years it can cost up to €150, afterwards free.
- Who can use it: employees and – new – also self-employed people.
- Old Riester contract? It can continue or be paused. Check before you cancel anything.

The smart split

> 💡 The state only subsidises up to €1,800 a year (€150 a month). Money in the AVD is locked until retirement. So: €150 a month into the AVD, everything above into a flexible savings plan you can access anytime.

3 mistakes that cost you money

> ❌ Starting late: every year without a contract = up to €540 + €300 per child lost.

> ❌ High fees: fees can eat a big part of the bonus. Compare costs before you sign.

> ❌ Child bonus with the wrong parent: it goes to one parent – assign it to the one who actually saves.

FOR EXPATS

Why the AVD matters more for you

You started paying into the German pension later than your German colleagues – so your state pension will be smaller. The AVD bonus is one of the cheapest ways to close part of that gap.

Example family

Parent pays €50/month (€600/year), 2 children with Kindergeld → state adds €840 per year. That's more than you pay in.

Moving back to India?

Ask before you sign what happens to the bonus and the depot if you leave Germany – the rules for moving abroad matter.

Your AVD checklist

- [ ] How much can I save per month – €10, €25, €50, €150?
- [ ] Do I have children with Kindergeld? Which parent gets the child bonus?
- [ ] Do I already have a company pension? Does my employer add money?
- [ ] Old Riester contract – continue, pause or switch?
- [ ] Do I plan to stay in Germany until retirement?
- [ ] Fees: what does the provider charge per year?
